“With HyperMotion Technology, we are able to blend the precision of player data with the speed and intensity of real life football, and bring an entirely new level of realism to both offense and defense,” said Adam Tibor, Senior Gameplay Engineer at EA SPORTS. “Not only do we get the speed and acceleration of a player running towards the ball, we can now also supercharge this dynamic by seeing how a player reacts when they’re in motion as well as how they move differently in tighter spaces than we’ve ever had before.” Standard or Classic Match conditions will be available to players who own FIFA Ultimate Team, whereby your progress will carry over to the Xbox One edition of FIFA 22. FIFA Ultimate Team players will see a Daily and Weekly Progress Screen, which provides a progress report and detailed stats on selected users. The performance and rankings of all players are updated on a weekly basis, providing the definitive indicator of a player’s performance for the week. The Ultimate Team packs and FUT Legend packs, including all Packs in the Season Journey will be available for purchase on launch day, with FIFA Ultimate Team packs and FIFA Legend packs available from September 2. FIFA Ultimate Team Packs Add more players to your squad with FIFA Ultimate Team packs. Available now on Xbox One and PlayStation 4 and on the web, they'll be available in different tiers. FIFA Ultimate Team packs contain up to 7,000 FIFA Ultimate Team coins. FIFA Ultimate Team packs and FIFA Legend packs can be purchased from the FUT section on Xbox.com and PlayStation.com or the online marketplace.
